New England's Monthly Numismatic Catalog

Special ANA Catalog Planned for September

On August 16-24, the nation's foremost annual coin show, the American Numismatic Association Convention, will be held in Cincinnati, Ohio. As most collectors know, this show is always tremendously active, and New England's numismatists will be purchasing many of its most beautiful offerings for presentation in Inventory Selections. However, because of the show's week-long duration, and because it is scheduled for the middle of the month, New England's numismatists will not have time to carefully grade and catalog ANA purchases in time for release in an August issue of this catalog. For this reason, Inventory Selections will not be published next month. In September, however, New England Rare Coin Galleries will publish a special double edition of Inventory Selections featuring a fully illustrated report on ANA activity and an offering of our newly-purchased ANA rare coinage.

This month, collectors of high-quality silver dollars should note our special value savings on Morgan and Peace Dollars. In addition, special value offerings of all kinds have been placed throughout the pages of this month's Inventory Selections.

This month is also important for followers of New England Rare Coin Auctions. Even as you read this, New England's Boston Jubilee Auction is drawing to a close (a report on prices realized will appear in the September Inventory Selections), and preparations for our next auction, the David K. Carnegie Sale, can reserve a catalog by sending $5 to New England Rare Coin Auctions at 89 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass. 02109.

Of special note to currency collectors: To better serve your needs, New England is conducting a survey of paper money collectors. Every collector who completes the questionnaire enclosed in this issue of Inventory Selections and returns it to New England by August 31 will receive a $10 Certificate that may be used toward any future purchase of U.S. currency.

Our thanks for your tremendous response to last month's Inventory Selections Special. We hope to be bringing you more special issues of this type in the future.

A special series profiling
New England Rare Coin Galleries' numismatic experts.

Ken Krah

Like many numismatic professionals, Ken Krah, Director of Wholesale Operations for New England's Ancient & World Coin Division, began collecting coins as a youngster. When Ken was 9, his grandfather presented him with a variety of U.S. and foreign coins. At first, it was U.S. coins, not foreigners, that attracted Ken's interest. He filled Whitman books with circulated coins and built a complete collection of Walking Liberty Half Dollars.

After graduating from Ohio University with a B.S. in Biology and Health Education, Ken settled in Strongsville, Ohio. While working for a wholesale leather goods firm, Ken started his own coin dealership. "I soon realized that English coinage was selling well and I turned my attention from U.S. coins to world coins."

Ken carefully built up an inventory of world coins. "For the first couple of years I crammed, studying a multitude of reference books and examining as many pieces as possible. Dealers in U.S. coinage can easily determine the value of a coin by referring to the latest 'Gray Sheet,' but foreign coin dealers have no such guide. We must do a lot of research if we are to appraise a coin accurately."

Ken joined New England's Ancient and World Coin Division this spring. As Director of Wholesale Operations, he supplies dealers with top-quality ancient and world coinage and is readily available to dealers who call New England's toll-free number. Ken and his wife Carol live in Brookline, Mass. Aside from numismatics, Ken enjoys sports, especially track. (His performance earned him a sports scholarship to Ohio University.) A life member of the ANA, Ken also belongs to the INS and CNA.

Ken sees the present interest in world coins as just a prelude of things to come. "New England's Ancient and World Coin Division has the resources to travel the globe to acquire the finest ancient and world coinage. As a result, they have a tremendous inventory. I know that the stage is set for rapid growth in the world coin market and that New England has one of the best seats in that house."

"With all these gorgeous coins available, everyone's standards went up."

Christopher Tracey
Vice-President, Retail Sales

"Collectors often ask me about New England's 'small increment' or 'pinpoint' grading. The best place to see it at work is in our offering of Morgan Dollars from the famous LaVere Redfield Collection. In 1974, when it was found, the Redfield Collection consisted of over 400,000 perfectly preserved silver dollars. With all these gorgeous coins available, everyone's standards went up. Collectors began to make finer distinctions between coins. Simple 'Gem UNC' and 'MS-65+' descriptions were no longer good enough.

"So when New England decided to offer Redfields, we selected 10 key and semi-key dates, and secured a good supply of each. Then we graded carefully, accurately, and in small increments from MS-60 to MS-69, with correspondingly small price steps. Now, when a New England customer decides to put, say, $400 into an 1887-S Redfield, he can open our catalog and find the coin he wants for the price he wants to pay. He is never caught between one coin in too low a grade, and another that's beyond his budget. His money goes right where he wants to put it, and he doesn't have to settle for less."

At the shows

Several coin conventions dotted June's Numismatic calendar, including the Long Beach Coin & Stamp Show (June 5-8); the International Paper Money Show (June 6-8); the Lake Tahoe Show (June 17-21); and the RCDA (June 20-22). New England also traveled to Japan for the Mitsukoshi show (held in Tokyo on June 3) where Japanese collectors and investors alike showed keen interest in the choice selection of Japanese, English, German and Swiss coinage that was available. In early July, dealer activity was brisk at the Metropolitan Washington Show (July 11-13). Interest seemed to be much higher for Gem business strikes, whereas Proofs tended to take somewhat of a backseat. Attempts to buy choice foreign coinage produced meager results.

Gold

Since our last report gold bullion rose $55 per ounce to the $680 level. As we are going to press, however, gold has just taken a sharp drop and is now hovering around $620. Bullion related coins such as Krugerrands and Mapleleaves are declining in response. However, Gem U.S. type coins are holding steady. Demand for Gem California Gold remains strong, although virtually no specimens were offered at the recent Metropolitan Washington Show.

Silver

Silver bullion is currently at $15.18, down slightly since our last report. In the dime market, Mercury Dimes, which were strong last month, softened somewhat for average specimens, but Gem specimens, particularly those with full split bands, are commanding premium prices. However, no individual spectacular prices for Mercury Dimes were recorded in June. Demand for early Liberty Seated coinage in Gem Mint condition, especially pieces minted before 1855, was strong this month. Perhaps the best indication of market strength for rare U.S. silver coins will be the sale of the Stanley Woollams Collection on July 24-26 at the Boston Jubilee Auction. The Sale, to be conducted by New England at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Cambridge, MA, will feature Woollams's array of Half Dollar and Trade Dollar rarities.

Copper

In the copper market, collectors are actively seeking choice Lincoln Cents, particularly full red specimens. Early dates in Gem Full Strike are showing strong increases. (Lincoln Cents, especially those with mintmarks, are generally weakly struck.) Two Cent Pieces in Mint State or Proof are also in strong demand, with strike and color the major factors determining the desirability of specimens. Early date Indian Cents (those minted before 1879) are being actively sought, even though they are becoming particularly hard to find.

Currency

While trading was active in June, the recent flurry of price increases for gem type notes has temporarily settled. These price surges did, however, bring many superb notes into the open market. Yet, supply of gem notes is still thin, and those that become available are quickly being absorbed by larger dealers. The other significant development in the market is the sudden interest in EF and AU notes. Most dealers we spoke with feel that while prices for many gem notes have advanced rapidly, these notes have lagged behind. Some investment advisors are also recommending choice original AU notes with a normal but light fold. Many dealers believe these slightly handled notes are an excellent value given the high prices gem notes are commanding on today's market. The market for large size type notes stabilized this month, with most gem notes showing only slight gains. Most trading between dealers was either in hard to locate type and national notes, or in notes priced under $2,000.

World Coins

Activity was brisk and attendance heavy at the recent Chicago International Coin Fair (held May 30-31) and the C.O.I.N. Show (held June 13-15) in Los Angeles. The C.I.C.F. was one of the busiest conventions we have seen in years, with an unusually large number of dealers from overseas in attendance. Bourse activity was hectic and most dealers were paying record prices for really choice or rare coins. For example, an 1839 Proof set of Great Britain, containing the rare and beautiful "UNA and the Lion" 5-Pound Gold, sold on the floor for a record $57,000.

The C.O.I.N. Show has been held annually for more than 16 years, and this year's convention was the busiest to date. Many of the dealers in attendance arrived in Los Angeles earlier that week for the U.S., foreign and ancient auctions conducted by a number of California firms. Thus, the stage was set for heavy activity at the auctions and later on the bourse. A small but select group of English Gold highlighted the foreign auction. A 1553 Gold Sovereign in EF of Mary I realized a record $23,000, while a rare Elizabeth I Gold Half-Pound realized $8,000. Among the Thalers offered, a 1479 Austrian Show Guldiner brought $11,000. Some of the strongest gains at the foreign auction were recorded for the 2- and 3-Marks of Prussia in Proof, with several pieces realizing 3 to 4 times many dealers' current retail prices.

I've been looking for a small country "all my own" to specialize in, and Romania seems intriguing. Why were almost all Romanian coins minted outside the country? And why were so many made in Birmingham, England, of all places? — R.K., West Tisbury, MA

Americans are often surprised at the prevalence of private minting in the smaller countries of Europe, and even more by the importation of coinage from outside the country. But the practice has always been common, and the Birmingham coinage of Romania is an excellent example. Produced by the Heaton Mint, millions of 1, 2, 5, and 10 Bani coins were struck. All are dated 1867, but production extended for years past that date. "The mint-master of Europe," as one New England numismatist describes the Heaton Mint, is still operating. In nearly 200 years, coins have been produced there for Canada, Austria, Egypt, Bulgaria, Ecuador, Jamaica, and many other nations. Why would a country "send out" to England for coins? Basically, it was a matter of technology. Just as wool from Scotland and cotton from U.S. plantations was sent to English factories to be manufactured into cloth, metal from native mines and royal treasure houses was delivered to be efficiently and inexpensively converted into coins by the Birmingham mint.

Most of the Heaton coins worldwide carry the mintmark H. On a few coins, however, you will find B or a monogrammed BI. On the 1871 Prince Edward Island penny shown here, the mintmark is entirely omitted.

Your June currency listing was exciting for me, as I am expanding my interests in that field. But I was wondering about the several "cut sheets of 4 notes." Why do you (and other dealers) cut up sheets of currency? — R.R., Santa Clara, CA

Several collectors new to the paper money field have recently asked this question, and we should explain. The "cut sheets" you have seen are almost invariably sheets that were cut at the time of printing. The appeal of cut sheets to collectors is the generally good condition in which they are found, the good match between notes, and the consecutive serial numbering. Cut sheet sets usually command a premium price. But an uncut sheet of the same notes would be far rarer, and more valuable. It would almost never be in the interest of any dealer or collector to mutilate a sheet by separating the notes. A notable exception was the case of a Wyoming territorial sheet auctioned by another dealer a few months ago. Because of the tremendous value of the uncut sheet, the owner felt that no single collector could afford to purchase it. In addition, the various notes were of widely varying condition. Cutting the Wyoming sheet enabled more collectors to own an exceedingly rare note . . . but the conditions that made cutting desirable in this case are unusual.

On vacation in London, I found an unusual coin or token in a dealer's "junk" tray. It is about the size of a halfpenny. The obverse seems to depict the execution of a criminal; I can't make out the reverse. Have you ever seen such an item? — A.D., Egg Harbor, NJ

In the 1780's and 90's, the government of George III was in general disarray. George himself was old, sick, and slightly insane. (Later the poet Shelley would call him "the old, mad, blind, despised and dying king.") As is often the case, the coins of a nation reflect its general condition — and the copper coinage of England was deteriorating, scarce, and increasingly counterfeited by pieces of reduced weight. To fill the need for farthings, halfpennies, and pennies, local merchants throughout Britain applied for charters to issue tokens that would pass as coin. In just a few years, a fascinating variety of these provincial tokens were produced.

By far the most imaginative of the token-makers was Thomas Spence of Middlesex, a printer and bookseller whose radical politics and bizarre sense of humor landed him in prison at least once. He published a weekly newspaper called "Pigsmeat" advocating land reform and revolution. He was also highly conscious of coin collectors' interest in "instant rarities," and frequently produced mules, or mismatched combinations of his various dies. It sounds like your hanged man token is by Spence. For a precise identification, consult The Provincial Token Coinage of the 18th Century, by R. Dalton and S.H. Hamer, in a 1977 reprint from Quarterman Publications.

Large Cents minted between 1793-1796 show Liberty with a head-dress known as the "liberty Cap." What is the significance of this cap? — P.C., St. Louis, MO

The Liberty Cap dates back to the Phrygians, whose civilization was greatest between 1500-331 B.C. in eastern Asia Minor. The Phrygians wore close-fitting cloth or felt caps with narrow brims in front to shield their eyes from the sun. Their caps attracted the attention of the Romans, who adopted the style, with the provision that only free men could wear them. A special red cap was given to any Roman slave who was set free. Thus, the cap first became identified with liberty. In fact, when Julius Caesar was murdered, the conspirators marched through the streets of Rome with one of these caps suspended from a spear to show that the city had been freed of tyrannical rule, and the coins of Cassius and Brutus displayed the cap between two daggers. The cap was again employed as a symbol of liberty when, in the 1760's, John Wilkes led a liberal revolt against King George III of England. Tokens of the period, for instance, bear a portrait of Britannia carrying the Liberty Cap on her spear.

The cap was also used in colonial America, appearing on the paper money of Georgia and on the masthead of the Boston Gazette to show opposition to those who remained loyal to the English Crown. In 1773, the public decided that the portrait of Liberty which appeared on Large Cents was unacceptable. They felt that Liberty looked mentally deranged because her face, featuring a flowing hair design, looked terrified. After only 3 months production, this version of Liberty was abandoned in favor of a more delicate and more attractive one — the Liberty Cap type.

It is interesting to note that the public objected to the reverse design of these early Large Cents as well. The words "ONE CENT 1/100" were encircled by a chain that was supposed to symbolize the union of the 13 original colonies with the states of Kentucky and Vermont. To symbolize unity, the 15 links were formed into an endless chain. However, public reaction to this design was quite unexpected. Americans thought their coinage should not show a symbol of captivity, and that the chain was a bad omen for the new nation. Only 36,000 coins had been produced when the Mint Director bowed to public pressure and removed the chain, substituting a single-bow wreath.

Collecting ancient and world coins is one of man's oldest hobbies. The Emperor Nero collected coins from Greece. Fourteenth century Italian nobles collected Roman coins. English gentlemen of old considered the study of ancient coins a crucial part of a proper education. Today, ancient and world coin collecting is the fastest-growing area in numismatics.

Inventory Selections is proud to present the following offerings of ancient and world coins taken from the latest issue of New England's bi-monthly world coin catalog, New England World Selections. When ordering, please refer to the "W-numbers" that appear before each coin listing. Our Complete Numismatic Services

1. Guarantees

☐ Grading

We guarantee that coins purchased from us are graded correctly and will meet our high standards when you wish to sell them. Further, we guarantee to purchase these coins at the same grade at which they were sold, or sell them for you at auction cataloged at the same grade at which you purchased them.

Our grading system is patterned after that of the American Numismatic Association. Developed in 1978, the A.N.A. System is rapidly being adopted by virtually the entire professional numismatic community. Its designations are:

Poor.....	1
Fair.....	2
About Good.....	3
Good.....	4,5
Very Good.....	8,10
Fine.....	12,15
Very Fine.....	20,25,30,35
Extremely Fine.....	40,45
About Uncirculated.....	50,55,58
Mint State.....	60,63,64,65,66,67,69,70
Proof.....	60,63,65,67,69,70

Slash grades indicate obverse/reverse designations. For example, a grade of 65/63 describes a coin with an obverse of Mint State 65 and a reverse of Mint State 63.

☐ Authenticity

We further guarantee that all coins sold by New England Rare Coin Galleries are authentic. To protect our customers, and as proof of our certainty that no altered or counterfeit coin can escape our attention, we guarantee to refund the full purchase price plus 15% compound annual interest, on any non-authentic coin acquired from us.

☐ Documentation

These guarantees are issued in writing with all coins purchased from New England Rare Coin Galleries. Each written guarantee is personally endorsed by two professional numismatists.

☐ Satisfaction

If, for any reason, you are not satisfied with your purchases, you may return them within 45 days of the date you received them for a full refund or replacement.
